ABOUT THE NEW EDITOR

It is something of a surprise to find myself in San Diego, here in the offices of Borderland Sciences Research Associates, handling the mail and other business, receiving visitors, and preparing material for the next issue of Round Robin.

When the Director, Meade Layne, acknowledged my subscription renewal in March he added this surprising note: "I think BSR is now about to close down - or out - account of health, eyesight and finances. . . I only wish that Riley Crabb or his double would take over 'as is.' Why not pay us a visit, anyway?"

The visit was a good idea. Afterall, Mrs. Crabb and I hadn't seen him since our arrival on the mainland in August, 1957. However, as we drove down here from our home in Camarillo, fifty miles above Los Angeles, a couple of weeks later, it didn't seem then that I would care to give up an interesting job in the middle of the race for outer space. At that time I was supervising a staff of scientific illustrators at the Naval Missile Center, Pt. Mugu. Our work was for the Command, preparing maps, charts, 35mm slides and Vugraphs on the development of the Pacific Missile Range.

One weekend visit led to another, and another, and another; as the realization dawned on me, and Mrs. Crabb, that Borderland Sciences Research Associates and Round Robin should be kept going at all costs. So, I've dropped my Civil Service career for the time being to work for BSRA. If the change becomes permanent it will be because I've succeeded, in some measure, in filling Meade Layne's place.

Meade tells me his doctor has suggested he retire from this work completely, if he wants to keep what health he has'. Mrs. Layne concurs. We are trying to make the changeover as smooth as possible for all concerned.

The Director drops in about nine in the morning, looks over the mail with me, gives advice where necessary, indorses the checks so we can carry on the buainess affairs of BSRA, and takes off - leaving the burden on our younger shoulders. Sometimes he stops by briefly in the afternoon if he feels like it.

My interest in metaphysics, in this life, dates back to 1934 when I discovered the not inconsiderable library of the Minneapolis Lodge of the Theosophical Society; and tried to read through it in record time'. I joined the Society twenty years later when I became president of the Honolulu Lodge, holding that position for three years. I resigned my membership in May.

During my thirteen years in the Hawaiian Islands I also joined the AMORC of San Jose and studied up through the Eighth Degree. It was during this time that I began to collect stories, books and pictures on Flying Saucers. In 1954 friends urged me to give talks on the subject "just to answer questions." This led to many appearances on radio and TV, talks to almost every service club in Honolulu, and UFO lectures to Navy personnel at Pearl Harbor and Barbers Point.

Most important of all during those years in the tropical paradise was the meeting with and marrying Mrs. Crabb. Fortunately for me she shares my interest in metaphysics, and she is helping with the office

Editorial experience includes work as a reporter and circulation man on the Honolulu, war-time edition of the Army newspaper "Stars and Stripes," two publishing ventures, and four-and-a-half years as editor of the "Center Relay," bi-weekly house organ of the Naval Supply Center, Pearl Harbor.

The first publishing venture, "Pacific Patrol," a monthly magazine for Armed Forces personnel,was a success largely because of the Korean war. Circulation reached ten thousand a month. The second venture, an attempt to revive the venerable "Mid-Pacific Magazine" was a failure. I lost my shirt.

Max Freedom Long aroused my interest in Meade Layne's work. I joined Borderland Sciences Research Associates in 1951. It was in August of that year that I met both of them during a mainland visit. Mrs. Crabb and I also made the acquaintance of the Yada and Professor Luntz at a seance in Mark Probert's apartment here in San Diego. This contact, through the mediumship of Mark Probert, has been a fruitful source of information and inspiration over the years. I consider myself fortunate to be more closely associated with the Inner Circle now, by being directly connected with BSRA headquarters.

Since coming to the mainland my lectures have been concerned with the problem of relating Flying Saucer data, and phenomena, to the teachings of the Mystery Schools. I believe you'll agree this is no easy task. If I have one goal in life it is an uncompromising search for Truth, whatever that might be, and wherever it may lead. Shall we join together in the quest?

THE REAL DANGER

Egerton Sykes, editor of "Pendulum," points out a very real danger in the March, 1959 issue; one more immediate than the lingering effects of the use of atomic energy in bombs or in industry.

"What people do not realise is that the atomic era is with us, whether we like it or not, andnobody can prevent this. . . However, the real danger does not lie here. It is in something present in the house of practically everybody, something which brings death in its trail, and is causing an increasing number of horrible deaths from cancer every year. . . The danger lies in the coal fires which fill the atmosphere with soot, causing smog which is one of the main causes of death from lung cancer and respiratory diseases. . . What people do not realise is that the winter fog areas are spreading to such an extent that within the next twenty years I expect to see a belt of fog covering Britain from the Channel ports to the Scottish industrial area in the North and the Bristol channel in the West, lasting from October to March without a break.

"In Europe a similar fog belt will cover Belgium, Northern France, West Germany, the Netherlands and Luxemburg on the West while behind the Iron Curtain, presuming it still exists, the smog will cover the area from Warsaw to Prague, and from Kiev to Berlin.

"Unfortunately this is not a matter in which either the radiesthesist or the professional medical man can do much. The cure lies in a wholesale revamping of our ideas on the economics and sanitation of our present day existence. . .

"The obvious solution is to convert all sources of power to atomic fuel or oil; to lay down piped electiric supply just under the road surface so that cars will be able to use this instead of oil fuel; to prohibit the burning of soft coal both domestically and industrially; and to leave coal supplies for the manufacture of dye-stuffs, chemicals, drugs and the like.

"This fate which menaces the Western World is just as deadly as that cooked up by politicians, but there is this great difference. Smog will happen and kill most of us unless we do something about it while war is unlikely to happen unless the issue is forced. . ."

"THE FLYING SAUCER SCENE IN THE UNITED STATES"

by John McCoy

The second point of contention in the materialist arguments is concerning the ships themselves. There has been much controversy between those who felt that the space craft were entirely "etheric" or "physical". This entire question is a rather important one at present and the dissonance created by the controversy has done much damage to the flying saucer field; so much so that at present we must become aware of it and attempt to settle the dispute with an understanding of the actual facts. From talking with many people well versed in metaphysics, physics, UFO's and other fields, I have found that almost all agree on this point. They agree that the ships are of necessity etheric-material! They are not one or the other, but both; and in fact could not function as true space ships unless they were. It is a matter of frequency.

PEYOTE BUSINESS: In "Amazing Stories" for Sept. '49, BSR Assoc. Vincent Gaddis has an excellent article on Peyote (dried tops of a Mexical cactus) which induces colored visions and a kind of clairvoyance; said to be harml ess and non-habit-forming. BSR Assoc. Dr. Nandor Fodor experimented with it; he used the extracted alkaloid principle called mescalin, by hypodermic, saw a "glorious panorama of symbolic visions," the normal consciousness not being inhibted meanwhile. We inquired of Dr. Fodor about the dosage and think his reply should be made public: "The dosage that gives cosmic visions is 0.3 grains. The higher dosage, 0.5 grains will give terrible paranoid hallucinations with suicidal tendencies. It is a dangerous and the subject has to be watched. Ingestion is harmless, and much less effective than intravenous (hypo)."

TWO EARNEST RESEARCHERS BOW OUT

BY Riley Crabb

A month ago, here at BSRA Headquarters, we heard that M.K.Jessup hod committed suicide. Before his passing he wrote some fascinating books on the Flying Saucer phenomenon: The Case for the UFO, The Expanding Case for the UFO, The UFO and the Bible, and The UFO Annual for 1954.

Also withdrawn from the UFO research field, though not in such a shocking fashion, is Thomas M. Comella. He was editor of "The Flying Saucer News Service Bulletin." Tom was a member of George Hunt Williamson's Telonic Research Center at Prescott, Arizona. Astronomer Comella furnished the comprehensive map of sightings of lights on the moon which appears in Williamson's first book, "The Saucers Speak." Comella sings his "swansong" in James W. Mosely's "Saucer News" for February-March, 1959.

In his farewell article Tom Comella says that serious Flying Saucer research has come to a virtual standstill Apparently Jessup had come to thisconclusion, as far as the three dimensional world is concerned, and chose a desperate way out of the dilemma.

We had hoped that the rumor of Jessup's suicide would remain just that, a rumor; but on the night of May 21st we attended our first Mark Probert seance since moving to San Diego. There, among others, Mrs. Crabb and I met a handsome young couple from Washington, D.C., Mrs. and Mrs. Weiner. They had become interested in the work of the Inner Circle when the Proberts visited the Nation's capitol a yaar ago. Now they were continuing the contact while on a vacation trip to Southern California.

It was while Professor Luntz was occupying Mark's body that Mr. Weiner popped the question, "Would you care to comment on the suicide of M.K.Jessup?"

Mrs. Probert was quick to interject that there should be no invasion of privacy in a matter like this, and Professor Luntz, of course, agreed. Nevertheless, he did refer to Jessup's motive for such an act of desperation as being the logical extension of all-consuming drive for more knowledge!

I took no notes at the seance but if memory serves me correctly Professor Luntz quoted Jessup's farewell statement as something like this: "I go to prove for myself the reality of worldsbeyond time and space."

I suggested to Professor Luntz that it would be of interest to BSR associates to hear Jessup's opinions of life beyond time and space when and if he were ready to present them. I then referred to post mortem communications received through Mark from two former BSR associates, Professor Ryan and Dr. Cruickshank.

"Yes," replied Professor Luntz, "It would be better to hear Mr. Jessup's story from him at first hand. Perhaps it can be arranged."

Meanwhile, let's take a look at some of Tom Comella's farewell comments, in his "The Nature of the UFO Mystery" article in Saucer News.

"A great change is taking place in UFO research," Tom writes. "Those investigators who used to believe that the flying saucers are real, are not so sure. (At this point Mr. Comella might have favored us with his definition of reality!) This existing attitude has brought serious research to a virtual standstill, because everyone is asking, 'What are we investigating, anyway?' For almost twelve years the problem of the UFO has been attacked, and the solution still eludes us. (Speak for yourself, Tom, but leave me and BSRA out.)

"When Man attacks a problem, he proceeds logically and his solution conforms with the facts that his mind perceives. For years this method has yielded very practical results. Once in awhile, though, Man is confronted with a situation that is different. The UFO problem is such a situation. For ten years Man has applied logic to the UFO and he has failed miserably to resolve the mystery. . . For the UFO is not a logical quantity. . . These strange objects show us no pattern, no reasonable conformity, to what we know as intelligence, and no purpose. We have applied logic to an illogical quantity. (I have to agree with you here, Tom; to the material minded person, imprisoned in a three dimensional world by his five senses, the whole Flying Saucer phenomenon is indeed illogical.)

"Consider for a moment a race of beings from some planet in the depths of space - a race that, by our standards, is almost completely undetectable, because its actions, possessions, and purposes are unintelligible to us. We could no more communicate with such a race than we could converse with a piece of stone. If such a situation presented itself, would there be any hope of resolving it? Could Man, by any stretch of the imagination, resolve such a problem? Could he overcome the logic and ego that bind him, and 'see' the reality present? The chances of such a success would be very minute indeed, and would involve a fantastic trek down the trail of the incredible. . . I will say that if Man is to gain the truthful knowledge of the Universe, he must view nature as it is; for to impose the logic of Man upon the Universe is to change nature according to Man's understanding. Iwill say that Man has developed his logical ways because his ego has not allowed for the possibility that he is not supreme throughout the Cosmos. I will say that because twelve years of research have failed to resolve the UFO mystery, there is no reason to state dogmatically that no problem ever existed. For I have given you another possibility - one that our egos might be able to rationalize, but one that our minds won't be able to exclude. I say that the above situation might be embodied in the UFO saga. Now tell me, who is free enough to solve it? (M.K.Jessup hoped to be free enough to solve it, by irrevocably separating his consciousness from his body. Of course, death brings some such opportunity to every here-living person, eventually!)

"With these words of challenge, I am terminating my investigations into the UFO mystery. Yes, this is Comella's swansong. I hope that this last article of mine has glimpsed for you a truth that will propel you to accept my challenge. (May we humbly offer the 4-D, Etheric origin of the Flying Discs, as outlined by Meade Layne in, "The Coming of the Guardians"?)

". . . To those of you who have claimed contacts with outer space and have lied, let me say that it's too bad you couldn't have made a worthwhile contribution. To those of you who have claimed contacts and have told the truth, I am sorry for you and for me. I am sorry for you because in your experience you have glimpsed reality but have failed to prove it. I am sorry for me because I was unable to see the truth in what you said and hence missed that reality. . . To the United States Air Force, I am bound to offer you my apologies, for we have misinterpreted your disorganization and inability to understand the illogical, for a conspiracy against us. . . To you who have found the UFO a fitting subject to make money on, I have only one thing to say: You are shutting out the truth completely when you compromise with sincerity. . . to those who have closed minds to the unusual - ask yourself what you are after - the truth? Or what you merely want to be the truth. To those who are honestly curious - temper your imagination with sincerity and you shall know the secret of the saucers."

CROSSING THE COSMIC BARRIER

We found a fitting footnote to Tom Comella's "swansong" on page 119 of "Flying Saucer Pilgrimage" by Bryant and Helen Reeve. Here it is.

"When we found out that flying saucers led us right out of this world, we ourselves had to face a decision - whether to follow them into supra-physical realms or retreat to the physical. We decided to go ahead. But we cannot make this decision for you. Each one must decide for himself."

From Jean Tunnicliffe, Tauranga, New Zealand:

"He left a very good impression behind in N.Z., surprisingly so, because we are by nature sceptical, level-headed and very slow to adopt new ideas. On the other hand we share with Denmark the honor of reading more books per head than any other country in the world. So maybe we are also receptive to new ideas. His followers here and people like myself, nearly all business and professional people, a few of the more arty intelligentisa, of whom we haven't many because of our small population I suppose. . . surprisingly perhaps to you, men are in the majority at Adamski and other Saucer groups."

John Pitt, in the London "Psychic News" for May 9, 1959:

"At Tunbridge Wells, Adamski said that Convair of San Diego was building a "mother ship" . . . that was being built closely to the sectional diagrams which illustrated his book, "Inside the Spaceships". . . Such statements as these during lectures and off the cuff have given me the impression that Adamski now thinks he is playing an important part in his country's "space race.". . . His occasional hints of malice towards fellow-"saucerers" and, above all, his bluff and evasion in answering written questions did not seem to wash with his Tunbridge Wells turnout."

DR. FODOR LAYS A GHOST

From the "Journal of the American Society for Psychical Research" for September, 1936, Vol. XXX, Number 9.

This tale of the laying of Lord Henley's ghost is one of the best rescue stories your editor has ever read. It is doubly interesting because two of the leading participants, Dr. Nandor Fodor and Eileen Garrett, later were among the first members of Borderland Sciences Research Associates.

"At this point (in Dr. Fodor's letter to ASPR) I must tell you the story of an extraordinary personal adventure. I heard of a ghost that disturbed the peace of a thirteenth-century house near Guildford. I secured an invitation and spent some unforgettable hours in the company of my charming host and hostess: Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kelly, the present owners of Ash Manor House. They gave me written testimonies of their experiences, and I could not but admire the grit and courage with which they faced the terror of the unknown. They did not know that the house was haunted when they bought it two years ago. The first indication that all was not well was a series of terrific knocks on Mr. Kelly's bedroom door. This continued for three nights.

"The third night Mr. Kelly stayed up and waited. He left the door of his bedroom open. At three o'clock in the morning there was a bang and a figure dressed in a greenish mouldy smock, with baleful eyes and half-open, idiotic, dribbling mouth stood there facing him. The figure was so solid that Mr, Kelly took him for a tramp that had broken into the house. Kelly challenged the tramp and, receiving no reply, went for the figure with his fist. His fist went right through the man and Kelly crashed full length to the floor. Overcome with terror, he ran the full length of the corridor into his wife's bedroom and fell there in a dead faint.

"Mrs. Kelly, not knowing what had happened and being unable to bring her husband to, ran to the servant's bedroom to get the key to the wine cellar and fetch some brandy. The servant's bedroom opens from a landing near her husband's room. As she came out in the dark, looking down to find a raised step, she saw a pair of leggings near the lintel of her husband's bedroom. Raising her eyes she saw a small, dreadful man. She, too, mistook him for an intruder, challenged him, and receiving no answer hit at him in fear and desperation. Her fist, too, went right through the figure and she cut her hand badly on the lintel of the door. Panic-stricken, she turned and raced down the stairs. When her husband regained consciousness they found that their descriptions tallied; they discovered another curious fact: the landing was in pitch darkness, yet both of them saw the ghost as plainly, with every detail of his countenance [illegible] and dress, as one could in daylight.

"On another occasion, heavy footsteps resounded in the corridor. The door of Mrs. Kelly's bedroom, which was bolted from the inside, slowly opened and footsteps, belonging to no visible man, crossed the floor, mounted an invisible ladder to a trap door - which opened and shut with a bang - and continued in the attic. This runs all along the house. The footsteps were heard by Mrs. Kelly, her 16-year old daughter Patricia, and a mongrel dog, which, hair bristling, followed with terrified eyes the invisib oman, looking higher and higher as the clumping of the footsteps ascended the ladder to the attic. There is a carpet in the room which the ghost crossed; however, this did not muffle the sound of his heavy steps.

"I was also told by Mrs. Kelly that on one occasion the ghost lifted up his head and showed her that his throat was slit. Thinking about this at dead of night alone in the haunted bedroom waiting for the ghost, it struck me as strange that only footsteps and knocks should be heard and not the death gurgle of the ghost. As if in answer to my thoughts, the stillness of the dark was suddenly broken by an eery gurgling sound. I sprang out of bed and stole on tiptoe in the direction of the sound.. With pounding heart, I found myself before the bedroom door of my charming hostess. And there I made a remarkable discovery. The gurgle was not a gurgle. It was a gargle. My hostess was washing her mouth before retiring for the night.

"My second night in the haunted house was less eventful. This I slept and at the ghostly hour had a nightmare. Something shapeless and formless pounced upon me, tore me to pieces and devoured me alive. I was awakened by the dog in my room whining in his sleep. I instantly grabbed the flashlight button and took a photograph of the haunted spot on which my camera was focussed. But the spot was blank, the photograph revealed nothing.

MRS GARRETT AND THE GHOST

"The following afternoon Eileen Garrett and Dr. Elmer Lindsay arrived and we held a seance. It was replete with drama and suspense. Mrs. Garrett was possessed by the ghost, crippled my hand in a vise-like grip that gave me intense pain, threw herself on her knees and begged for mercy. Her face went an extraordinary change. She looked a ghastly sight. I called to my host to look. He went pale: it was the very image of the ghost. Mrs. Kelly in turn came and groaned.

"My God!" she turned her face away and sobbed.

"It was the most extraordinary interview I ever had. The entity (after we convinced him that his slit tongue had been miraculously restored), was stammering in a mediaeval English which we had as much difficulty to understand as the entity did in following my English and Dr. Lindsay's American accents. The first word he uttered was ELEISON, pronouncing the second syllable with an 'o' (which, I am told, was the mediaeval way). He was pleading for mercy. Gradually we got his story. He was Lord Henley, a partisan of the last Plantagenet pretender, a rebel against the Tudor House. Betrayed by Buckingham, his childhood friend, he was cast into prison, tortured and maimed until he was rendered a wreck of humanity, and men had forgotten why he was held in jail.

"Unaware of the passing of four hundred years, he still believed himself a prisoner whose only passion in life was vengeance on his oppressors. We argued and pleaded for his tortured soul. For the sake of his wife and son he finally promised to give up his vengeance. The moment he made this promise, he cried: "Hold me, hold me, dont let me go, dont. . . " He slipped away and Mrs. Garrett came to.

"We thought that the sacrifice which he made had enabled him to rise, and that that was the reason for his going. Twenty-four hours later, to the minute, my telephone rang. Mr. Kelly was on the other end. The ghost had returned. It was standing in the door of his bedroom, making desperate efforts to speak. This it had never done before. The appearance was a corroboration of the sitting of the previous day; but it upset my host and disturbed me deeply.

"Mrs. Garrett agreed to lend herself to another interview with the ghost. It was a pathetic and very moving talk. We learned that the ghost came back to see us. We promised him that we would stand by. He did not know that we do not live in the house. He was not yet free. His jailor (apparently another ghost) kept on calling him back. A glimmer of light had entered his agonized soul, but he wondered if he could trust us and those strange fellows, not of his race (Uvani and Abdul Latif), who offered him their services. He thought we sought him out because of his rank and wished for a reward. He could not quite believe that he was dead, and he wept silent tears when I told him that exactly four hundred years had gone by since the date of his marriage, which he revealed to us, 1536. Finally, he departed in peace. He will, I hope haunt Ash Manor House no more."

THE GUARDIANS AT WORK

Unidentified Flying Objects continue to hurtle down out of our skies. In each case "authorities" venture opinions as to the cause of the phenomenon, and of course one can get as many opinions as there are authorities! The "flaming object" which crashed to earth in South Africa April 26th is a recent example. For what it is worth, let us offer an opinion based on BSRA material.

We refer specifically to the latest edition of Meade Layne's "The Coming Of The Guardians," page 52, para. 21:

". . . Visitors from other solar systems occasionally come to this one for various purposes. If their purpose is not malicious, they are permitted to proceed. Otherwise they are usually intercepted and turned back in the outer limits of this solar system."

What happens to malicious intruders who are not intercepted and turned back? Perhaps this Associated Press news item from Durham, South Africa, April 27, 1959 is an example:

"A flaming object that may have been the American satellite Discoverer II crashed to earth Saturday night near Richmond, 70 miles west of here.

"The object plunged to earth with a roar that shook houses for miles around and lighted the skies with the brilliance of daylight.

"Search parties organized by Richmond police failed to find any trace of the object. It was believed to have fallen about 15 miles

ANTI-GRAVITY RESEARCH

There is no question that the subject of anti-gravity aroused widespread interest in scientific circles ten or twelve years ago. That was when observed and recorded performances of Flying Saucers startled the technicians.

Anti-gravity, as a form of propulsion, would apparently be superior to any derived from present fuels used in rocket and jet motors. Especially would this be true if scientists could bring about the "conversion of mass directly into usable electromagnetic or mechanical energy."

Because of the tremendous military and economic significance of such a "break-through," government interest in anti-gravity research would undoubtedly be classified Top Secret. At least this would tend to account for the strange lack of comment on anti-gravity research in American magazines such as Aviation Week,and Missiles and Rockets. The only two articles that come to mind at present are one which appeared in the Swiss magazine, "Interavia," two years ago, and reviewed in RR by Meade Layne, and a six-page brain-buster complete with charts, diagrams and references in the February, 1959 issue of the British "Aeronautics" magazine. The author, A.R.Weyl, titles his opus "Gravity and the Prospect For Astronautics." We'll review this one when and as we can digest its contents!

Here's an item we saw in the "Alumni Purpose" of Principia College, St. Louis, Mo., July, 1958.

"The possibility that man can control gravity has been recently presented to the scientific world by Dr. William Hooper, Principia Professor of Physics, in a paper read before the annual American Physical Society meeting held this spring (1958) at the University of Chicago.

"For nearly ten years (Ah! that Flying Saucer year, 1948!) Dr. Hooper has expounded his theory of the gravitational break-through, but it was not until recently that he has been joined by another scientist, Joel E. Fischer of New York City, in carrying out experimentation to prove the truth of his gravitational theory."

ANTI-GRAVITY RESEARCH REVEALED AS ARMY SPACE PROJECT

This headlined an item by Major Donald E. Keyhoe in his "UFO Investigator" for January, 1958.

"Anti-gravity experiments linked with future outer space operations have just been announced by the Army. Basic research to develop a method of neutralizing or controlling the earth's gravitational pull is being conducted at Redstone Arsenal, the Army's missile center at Huntsville, Ala.

"This announcement is of special interest for two reasons. First, because Professor Hermann Oberth, the first great rocket scientist to suggest that UFOs have artificial gravity fields, is on the Army project at Redstone. (Dr. Oberth returned to Germany in Nov. 1958.) The nature of his work has never been disclosed, but it is reasonable to suppose that he has an important part in this and other space travel projects.

"The Army's anti-gravity work and the other G-field research being carried on by the Navy, Air Force and leading aircraft companies also take on new importance because of the electrical interference from UFO close-range operations, as reported by a number of reliable witnesses."

The Rand Corporation must not have heard of the Army's anti-gravity research program at Redstone - could be under the tight compartmentalization affected by the government's security program. For when the Rand Corporation released its authoritative and voluminous report on "Astronautics and Its Applications" for the House Space Committee early this year, it looked down its corporate, government-subsidized nose at anti-gravity applications suggested by science-fiction writers and Flying Saucer researchers.

"No prospects are now apparent for realization of propulsion schemes of the 'anti-gravity' variety because the negation or reversal of the gravitational attraction of matter would violate basic physical laws as presently understood.

"Pending discovery of a new class of physical phenomena, the notion of anti-gravity now stands in a state similar to that of the perpetual motion machine."

GRAVITY AND THE PROSPECT FOR ASTRONAUTICS

With the above items out of the way, let us turn to the scholarly and open-minded article by A.R.Weyl in the British "Aeronautics."

"In a previous critical survey (namely, Aeronautics, Oct. 1957), the author dealt with the subject of anti-gravity. He endeavored to expose the absurdities of 'weightless' or 'weight-reduced' masses, and appealed for a rational and reasonable appreciation of what engineering could expect from research in the domain of gravitation. He also suggested the promotion of certain basic experimentation in that direction.

"The universality of gravitation is still not fully grasped by many who pursue space flight, and a lot of nonsense is being written and talked about 'weightless' states during forthcoming space journeys.

"Strictly speaking, no weightless state can exist in a uniformly moving vehicle - at least, not within our universe! All that can be expected are weak or compensated gravitational fields.

"Of course, the gravitational fields of two or more celestial bodies do overlap - in fact, these of all masses in our universe do. This overlapping of gravitational fields yields points or lines on which the gravitational attractions cancel each other, thus neutralising the weight of a mass (unaccelerated) in that region. Thus, if one journeys from the earth to the moon, a point will be reached along the trajectory where the gravitational attraction of the earth exactly equals that of the moon. However, even at this neutral point, masses within the vehicle will still be subject to a gravitational attraction: they will experience an acceleration of gravity directed towards the centre of gravity of the vehicle; in other words, they will endeavor to fall towards it. The value of this acceleration will, of course, be rather small. But there should be no state of absolute weightlessness with things floating freely about, as long as the projectile is in uniform motion - except at the center of gravity of the vehicle. Should the vehicle accelerate in a direction and with a magnitude exactly opposite to the resultant of all gravitational accelerations, then of course a state of absolute weightlessness can be attained for all masses in the vehicle subject to that gravitational acceleration. It is odd that even rocket inventors of world reputation are seemingly not aware of these elementary facts."

WHAT DAN FRY WAS TOLD BY ALAN

Here we might interject a couple of quotations from "The White Sands Incident," Dan Fry's story ofa flight in a Flying Saucer from White Sands, New Mexico to New York City and back, in half an hour, on the night of July 4, 1950.

During the flight at twenty miles altitude and a speed of 8,000 miles an hour, Dan expected to be floating around in the cabin; instead, he found himself seated comfortably without a safety belt holding him down.

He asked himself, "Why am I not floating around in the air as things are supposed to do within a missile which is in free fall?"

"The answer to this should be fairly obvious," was the reply. "Before the ship was put into motion, you were resting upon the seat, and there was a force of one gravity acting between your body and the seat. Since the force which accelerates both the ship and your body acts in exact proportion to the mass, and since the earth's gravity continues to act upon both, the original force between your body and the seat will remain constant, except that it will decrease as the force of gravity of the planet decreases with distance."

To continue with the Weyl opus from British "Aernnautics":

"The present approach deals with prospects of a wider nature which are not restricted merely to levitation in gravitational fields. A tentative hypothesis on the conception of mass may open possibilities for the generation of unlimited energy directly from the conversion of mass, and for the transformation of radiant energy (for example, light) directly into mechanical energy.

"At the present time, our technological aim is energy generation from thermo-nuclear reaction; for example, the transmutation of deuterium from 'heavy water' into helium. The fusion of one gram of hydrogen into helium is able to yield some 200,000 kilowatt hours in the form of heat and radiatiin. This is the result of the 'mass defect', the minute difference in mass when the helium nucleus is formed. This minute difference alone is liberated energy.

"But when one gram of ordinary mass is completely converted into energy, not less than some 25 millions of kilowatts are available for one hour. The economic advantage for technological reasons is obvious.

"Although the possibility cannot be denied that our (still deficient) knowledge of the laws of nature will widen with the progress of scientific research, no basic changes or discoveries can be expected which would cancel any of our present fundamental laws. Thus an exploration of possibilities in physics should not involve any conflicts with the present established laws.

"In spite of this reasonable limitation, a sober survey of possibilities guided by established facts and the laws of nature leads to prospects which may sound even more fantastic than the products of unfettered imagination by journalists or unscrupulous fiction writers."

In the next issue of Round Robin we'll continue with A.R.Weyl's analysis of "Gravity and the Prospect For Astronautics," giving his general considerations. For now, let's conclude with his summary of the

1. Permeability - All pervading, no shielding known by any agent or substance.

2. Universality - a: Attraction depends on the inverse square of the distance (is like electrostatic or magnetic attraction).
   b: Every mass is affected, from particles of zero rest mass to massive celestial bodies.

3. Remote Action - Transmissiin of the effect does not require any carrying medium, and no attenuation by any medium

4. Transmission Speed - Gravitational waves travel at the velocity of light (supposition by theory, but no experimental evidence).

5. Independence - Not affected by physical state mass, electrical properties, temperatures, directional affects and nature of intervening medium.

6. Equivalency Principle - Identity of gravitational and inertial mass.

7. Non-Polarity - Absence of 'sinks' in the gravitational field. Attraction only, no repulsion.

8. Weak Coupling - Gravitational interaction very much smaller than other elementary forces (the electrostatic attraction between an electron and a proton is not less than $2 \cdot 28 \times 10^{39}$ times greater than their gravitational attraction).

9. Concentration - At any mass, the gravitation is concentrated in the centre of gravity.

10. Nature of Gravitation - Still unknown. Direct relation to electromagnetism suspected but not yet experimentally proved.

THE CAPT KILLIAN UFO SIGHTING AND ITS AFTERMATH

In his Saucerian Bulletin for May, 1959 Gray Barker included a lengthy news clip on Captain Peter W. Killian, American Airlines pilot whose plane was accompanied by a flight of three UFOs during a trip from Newark to Detroit in February. He was interviewed by the Long Island Daily Press on Feb. 26th.

He was flying at 350 miles per hour, altitude 8,500 feet, between Phillipsburg and Bradford, Pa. when the lights appeared, not close to the plane, in the southern sky, a little higher than his plane.

"I have never seen anything like this before," Killian said. "Most of the time they were following me they kept in formation but occasiinally one of them would zoom straight ahead of me. Then it would drop back into position off my wing."

To make sure he wasn't seeing "lightning bugs" in the cockpit Killian made radio contact with two nearby American Airlines planes. Both plane captains confirmed the presence of the UFOs.

All 35 passengers and five crew members sighted the wierd objects which emitted whitish light of blinding brilliance, Killian said.

"At times it was like trying to see a dime behind a powerful electric light bulb."

(Here we might refer you to the book "Spacemen, Friends and Foes" by BSR Assoc. Trevor James. "The true interplanetary craft, the ventlas of our forces, will appear to your optics with a manifestation of colored lights, usually red, green and white. They will sometimes appear constantly red or green, other times they will appear to be flashing. Those of the Satanic forces seldom exhibit color, but come with white, or bluish-white manifestation, and are usually constant rather than flashing." Crabb.)

To forestall alarm, Killian invited the passengers to watch the formation for "some after dinner enjoyment." He said that before the Tuesday sighting he had been skeptical of the existence of UFOs, "but I'm converted now."

HAS CAPTAIN KILLIAN BEEN SILENCED? Headlines an item in Norbert Gariety's S.P.A.C.E., a Saucer publication from 267 Alhambra Circle, Coral Gables, Florida for April 1959. He writes that "CSI of New York City held a UFO Symposium on March 27th at the Hotel Diplomat. The meeting was attended by over 1,500 people from all phases of the UFO controversy. The most important man of the evening was not there. This was to be Capt. Peter Killian, who was to be one of the principal speakers. . . He had the express approval of his employers to talk about his sighting, but just prior to the meeting at the Diplomat he called Major Donald E. Keyhoe and said he could not attend.

Major Keyhoe quoted Capt. Killian as saying, "I feel very deeply concerned with this loss of my own personal freedom."

EXCERPTS from ANTIQUITY UNVEILED
Edited by Jonathan M. Roberts

Antiquity Unveiled, published about 1873, originally contained a series of over 150 messages from well known personages of the past attesting to the fact that Apollonius of Tyana was the Jesus of the Christian scriptures. The book records revelations proving when and from what Christianity originated. Jonathan M. Roberts, eminent lawyer and scholar, recorded the messages as they fell from the lips of a sensitive. This series of condensed excerpts are taken from the abridged edition, published in 1894 and long out of print. - Alice Winston, BSRA.

COMMUNICATION FROM PLOTINUS, The Neo-Platonist

Ours is a war for Truth. . . as it was with me in the mortal form, so it is now with me in the spirit. While you fight with benighted souls in the mortal form, I am fighting with the deluded millions in spirit. The school to which I belonged is known toyou moderns as the Neo-Platonic; by us it was called the Eclectic. The founder of this school was Ammonius the Paripatetic, but the person who really furnished the materials for this school was Apollonius of Tyana. All the ideas this school ever gave forth under Potamon, Ammonius Saccas and myself, were gathered from the originals of the school of that famous Hindoo, known to us by his Sanscrit name, Deva Bodhisatous. His writings were the foundation, combined with some Platonic, which forms the whole of what the Eclectic school taught.

In the first place, the whole history of Jesus of Nazareth, so-called, was started by that Hindoo, representing the life of Buddha, and afterwards taught by Apollonius of Tyana. In my mortal life I was a particular friend of the Emperor Gallienus. I had frequent conversations with those who claimed to know anything of this Jesus and proved to them so conclusively that Apollonius was the real Jesus that my works were destroyed by the Christians. The next spirit that communicates after me shall be the one to tell you when and where they were destroyed. This pope comes here by the force of my mediumistic power.

I acted in precisely the same capacity to the Emperor Gallienus that Apollonius did to Vespasian. That is, I was his oracle. I obtained almost all your modern physical phenomena. I had independent writing on copper plates, which were closed and sealed together and the writing was produced on the inside of those plates. I also taught in my own house on two days of the week while in trance, or ecstatic state. It is by the mediumistic power of us so-called heathens that the Christian interlopers and destroyers of other men's good works are compelled to come here and confess their rascality. Fight them faithfully on your side, my good brother, and you will find that one, Plotinus, will ever help you when he can. I have exhausted the time allotted to me for this sitting. Good-bye.

End of Plotinus' communication

COMMUNICATION FROM POPE GREGORY, by whose order the Library of the Palatine Apollo was destroyed in the Eleventh Century.

Good day! I come here by force, as the preceding speaker, the spirit of Plotinus, told you. And what is worse, I am forced to tell you exactly what I did, when here in the mortal form. When living on earth I was known as Pope Grebory and what I am here for today is to own to the destruction of the Library of the Palatine Apollo, which contained the whole of the writings of the School of Alexandria, from the days of Potamon to the days of Maximus.

And what is my excuse for its destruction? Religious bigotry. I made the excuse for it, that I did not want the clergy to have their minds diverted from their holy work by studying heathen literature. But the real cause of my action was that there were recorded in the library all the facts that would prove that no such person as Jesus of Nazareth ever existed. Therefpre, feeling the weakness and insecurity of my position, I did all that I could to strengthen it, by letting as few as possible know what the real contents of that library were.

I am here also to state that there is a power - a band of Spirits - now occupying a position that enables them, when they want a man to return here and atone for the wrongs he has done in his mortal life, to force him to come back and communicate the truth. By the forms of Truth itself he is compalled to come back and acknowledge his wrongs. It is the same with Spirits as with mortals - they love power and hate opposition as much there as they did here.

That is all I have to say.

End of Gregory's communication.

Mrs. Winston, whose home is at 199 Avenida LaCuesta, San Clemente, is a recent and enthusiastic convert to Subud. For those who may be interested in her area she informs us that meetings are being held in the homeof Mildred Holloway, 463 Fifteenth Street, Del Mar, California. Her phone number is SKyline 5-2803.

There are two books on the subject of Subud, available from Fields Book Store, 1419 Polk Street, San Francisco 9. These are "Concerning Subud" by Bennett, and "The Path of Subud" by Husein Rofe. No price given.

Subud seems to be sweeping the Western world at the present time. Many BSR associates are undoubtedly interested in it from an informational standpoint; some are studying and, like Mrs. Winston, have joined. If you would care to write of your personal experience with Subud, pro and con, we will do our best to get it into print in RR.

"MYSTERIOUS JOLTS"

(A clip from the Santa Barbara News-Press of February 11, 1959. From Associate George C. Wilson, 718 Rametto Rd., Santa Barbara, California)

A mysterious jolt shook the Flagstaff area this morning, about 15 hours after a similar tremor rocked the Texas Panhandle and southeastern New Mexico. Homes in all sections of the northern Arizona community bucked and swayed. Dishes rattled in the cupboards. Drivers on the way to work said that immediately after the tremor their windshields were iced over, both inside and outside. The Associated Press teletype machine at the Arizona Daily Sun of Flagstaff suddenly went on the blink about 7 a.m., then returned to normal service a few minutes later.

The Texas tremor, accompanied by two distinct blasts, shook an are from 100 miles northeast of Amarillo to Roswell, N.M., 200 miles southwest. Witnesses said houses swayed and they reported hearing unpleasant noises like trucks hitting buildings, horses galloping and gas explosions.

"It was like being in a vacuum or in the center of a concussion area," one report said. "A rather strange sensation that lasted about five seconds. There seemed to be the noise of an explosion but it was something you felt rather than heard."

Dr. Don Tocher, seismologist at the University of California at Berkeley, said his instruments recorded a disturbance at 6:04 a.m. PST, "and it appeared to be a good quake." The record was insufficient, however, for him to determine the distance or direction.

The Mark Probert controls have made the following comments on the phenomena of the "air quakes"!

> "The sounds are produced by a kind of crepitation of the ethers and involve areas or strata of varying density and frequency."

from Richmond. . . described as being blue-green or fiery red and about 100 feet long. An official of the American tracking station here said the object may have been Discoverer II, put into orbit April 13 and expected to plunge to earth Saturday night. . . South African astronomers expressed doubt that the explosive fire-ball could have been a man-made satellite. Dr. W.S.Pinsen said it was almost certainly a meteorite."

It also could have been a hapless, hunted UFO, its electro-gravitic field collapsed by the Guardians!

VENIT SUMMA DIES

The time has come - the walrus said, To speak of many things. On our list of Associates we have always had a few earnest students of esoteric Qabalism, but not since the days of our Flying Roll have we mentioned this subject - or the Golden Dawn Order, which is now moribund, or taboo for various unreasonable reasons. Going back as far as Dee and Kelly, however, some very fine psychism obtained at times among members of the Order, and the recent outcropping of this, quoted below, is remarkable in its application to the etheric nature of the UFO and the etheric concept generally. "The whole communication started at 10:00 and continued until 2:00 p.m. the next day. The communicator himself is evidently not an etherian". So writes the clairaudient, a (woman) resident of Arizona.

The time may come, to quote the walrus again, but maybe only for even my most tolerant friends to shake their heads and tap their foreheads.... or perhaps 'turn down a (thrice) empty glass.' (ml)

Anyway, to start right in the middle of the communication. . . . Quote -- "You may be surprised to know that even Cosmic Intelligences are now making themselves concerned with the affairs of earth men, though only through the avenues of the ethers and the Guardian Spirits or Intelligent forces and/or Minds of the Etheric world. --The Etheric world is a world, not a plane, though it consists of what is known as planes. --It might better be said that it is a world as pertains to its being the counterpart of any planet or world, though the term counterpart is a misnomer, the use of which cannot be avoided due to the limited understanding of human consciousness. The strange-to-you craft that are refered to by some intelligently interested minds as 'Space Craft', or 'Space Ships', and which causes the uniformed materialistically - though sometimes sincere minded investigator to think this means that these craft travel from one planet to another by crossing what you know as 'space', are from this Etheric world, both as pertains to the etheric 'counterpart' of the earth and also of other planets of this system. Consideration of this SOON TO BE EMPIRICALLY PROVEN theory might cause you to think that the use of the term 'space craft' is also a misnomer, but to a mind schooled in Qabalistic notation it is not at all an inappropriate term, and one that can readily be recognized as havingbeen introduced into the subconscious minds of those who first employed the term, by Those from the unseen who inspire such ideas to be thus born into the minds of humanity. The earnest student of Qabalistic thought has at least a conceptually conceived notion that the Kether Sephirah signifies both space and the raw material of consciousness that can be wielded or molded into the pattern of form by those whose initiation has provided them with the self earned wisdom of the process of channel building.

As Space, Kether is that 'center which is everywhere, whose circumference is nowhere'. Thus if you will give time to contemplate these implications in the light of what the mind can learn by a serious consideration of the extant material of this great system of teaching, you will readily come to see WHY, if not HOW a respected group of Inner Plane Intelligences arrived at Their conclusions concerning what They have refered to as the Etheric Origin of the Space Craft; and why, if not how They know the means whereby these Space Craft can appear visible in your dimension, which They have said is by a process of Mat and Demat and due to the Craft being made by the minds of, and consisting of the actual bodies of Those operating them. Kether being not only Space, but also the raw material of consciousness, as well as being the archetypal force-field or world, you should be able to intertain the idea, at least, that this raw material is the stuff of Mind which can be molded into sensible form by Minds capable of manipulating it; and in as much as the world of prototypes signifies what esoteric psychology refers to as 'archetypal images' it should not be at all difficult to see that the Etheric theory of the origin of the Space Craft is far more feasible than the contention that these Space Craft come from the third dimensional aspect of other planets. I present this brief sketch of the Qabalistic principles pertaining to this to add my support to those who have so ably expounded the Etheric theory of the Space Craft, and to put myself on record as agreeing with this theory set forth by Those who enjoy with me the liberation from earth-bound existence and the hide-bound concepts of the scientific attitude of the present age and times, which is so surely setting the stage for a disaster such as has never been known except in a lesser degree and for a different cause, which reduced some of the former existing planets into the fragments known as the Planetoids and Asteroids."

AN EXCERPT FROM OAHSPE by Associate H.M.W.

Let it be premised, then, that the etherial firmament is not a waste and interminable nothingness but that, on the contrary, it is in many regions even between the earth and the sun, sufficiently dense for a corporeal man to dwell upon, and to walk about, even as on the earth. Some of the etherian worlds are as transparent as water or clear glass, and some opaque. Some of them are as large as the earth and some a thousand times larger. Some of them are as oceans of water; some transparent and some opaque; and some of them dense clouds of ashes. 583 - 13.

It is an error to say that whilst the corporeal worlds are organized, with fixed orbits and uses, the unseen worlds are nothing, or at best not organized. They are organized, with orbits, places, form figures, and so on as definitely as are the corporeal worlds. Their times and seasons are regular and well provided. 584 - 14.

NOTES ON THE 1959 CONVENTION AT GIANT ROCK

George Van Tassel's Sixth Annual Spacecraft Convention at Giant Rock, California, May 23rd and 24th, was as successful this year as in the past, according to reports coming to BSRA Headquarters. George startled the conventioneers by announcing that this year's would be the last. His College of Universal Wisdom at Yucca Valley is going to be taking up too much of his time from now on.

Two events disturbed an otherwise well-planned and smoothly operated program. One was the taking of a Flying Saucer photo at Sunday noon, by a non-believer! The other was the arrival of two visitors who, though claiming to come from outer space, actually rolled up on a conventional motorcycle, so we were told by Mayme Malm.

She also told us of the momentous taking of the picture.

"It was taken with a Polaroid camara, by a Deputy Sheriff."

"Was he on duty there?" I asked.

"No, Deputy Sheriff Ackerman is a friend of George Van Tassel, from Twenty Nine Palms. He likes George very much, but never believed in Flying Saucers . . . "

"Until that Sunday?"

"Yes. He was standing there near me, taking pictures of the Convention and developing them when - on this one shot taken toward the two rocks - this glowing object shows up hovering over the rocks, clear as crystal. It is one of the best Flying Saucer pictures I've ever seen!"

"And nobody saw the UFO?"

"No, Riley, it was invisible to normal sight."

"By 'best picture' do you mean the object was sharp edged and clear?"

"No, it was surrounded by a vapor. He showed it to everyone. Many took pictures of the picture with their own cameras, because there is no negative, only the one print. He took another picture of that area five minutes later but nothing unusual showed up in it."

So there you have it. If we can get hold of a suitable copy of Deputy Sheriff Ackerman's photo we'll try to have it reproduced for BSRA members.

Mayme Malm has been student of metaphysics for years and has maintainnd a close acquaintanceship with Saucerers here in Southern California. She and her husband bought George Adamski's original cottage and some land from him, at Palomar, several years ago. She gave the opening invocation at the Giant Rock Convention.

The couple who claimed an outer space origin also claimed time on Van Tassel's speakers program. This George refused, but he did suggest that they could "hold court" around on the other side of the Rock, for those who wished to listen to Prince and Princess Neesho; this they did. For a portrait of Prince Neesho and and a description of his activities back east, read Gray Barker's column in the May issue of Ray Palmer's "Flying Saucers." There will be controversy over the claims of this couple. Each individual will have to decide for himself whether they speak the truth, whether they are sincere but deluded fools, or whether they are out-and-out racketeers.

ESCAPE TO THE SOUTH PACIFIC (Excerpts from a letter to the RR Ed).

I enjoy the data published by you very much. . . and have mentioned BSRA to about 100 people, many non-medical doctors, and hope they respond one day. The human mass is in a mental fog including our allegedly "brilliant" people.

I plan to go to South Pacific with a group and end my days there. Spent some war years there and prefer to what ever the hell this is that we GOT. At least the food, water and air is fairly pure and wonderful SUN is always shining. I will leave the JUDEO*MONGOLIAN* ETHIOPIAN*CHRISTIAN*INTERNATIONAL BANKER*FLUORIDATED WATER*POISONED FOOD MESS to those who stay behind. Maybe I can get a few good weeks of living out there in that blue Pacific before they pull the chain on this old planet. Maybe I can get the BSRA reports by slow boat mail once a year. Time will not matter out there. I will personally bust all clocks on the island.

I highly recommend MAX GERSON M. D. recent book "A CANCER THERAPY" (Whittier Books Inc. NYC) after ten years of study and reading in this field. This guy has the BEST yet. ($8.50 and worth more). H e cured cancer in Germany and AMA wanted him to STOP IT HERE. They are a sad bunch of bastards, (that A. M. A. gang). You can get a lot of Cadillacs out of cancer victims if they take the usual X-ray, gut cutting, radium deal and PAY. Once in a while some silly HUMANITARIAN comes along and CURES these people wrecking the soft income for the slobs that exploit it. Many of them are stupid but a lot of them KNOW. I call of doctors that have cured cancer for the past 20 years but have to keep quiet about it. All cases M.D. and biopsy proved before final cure treatment.

A NOTE FROM MARY HYDE, Alexandria, Virginia

Glad to hear you are working with Round Robin. It is a privilege to work with Meade Layne. Have you heard of Subud?
Thought you might be interested in this "Cancer Blackout" thing.

Thanks for the kind words, Mary. The "Cancer Blackout" thing she referred to is a new book of that name by Maurice Natenborg, $4.00. Order from Regent House, 4554 Broadway, Chicago 40, Ill.
"The Cancer Blackout deals with all the facts, particularly those suppressed by powerfu l interests," the publicity brochure says. "Many remedies, both old and new, are reviewed and the experiences of their discoverers described, showing how they were usually discredited and ridiculed without the semblance of a fair trial. . . Pulling no punches the author carefully delineates the pattern of suppression which has prevailed for over two centuries, both in England and in the United States. He proves that despite the ballyhoo, the professed dedication to discovering a cancer cure and the untold millions spent for cancer research, a cancer cure is really not wanted, particularly if it threatens to eliminate the need for expensive hospitalization, surgery, radiation and narcotics."

Natenberg covers most of the independent and modern approaches to cure, including those of Koch, Glover, Revici, Lincoln, Rees Evans, and the Andrew C Ivy - Krebiozen controversy. He also devotes an entire chapter to the dietetic therapy treatment of Dr. Max Gerson. (Ed.)

AN INQUIRY FROM CAPE TOWN, SOUTH AFRICA

Your book "The Coming of the Guardians" has been very informative and helpful to me. For many years I have spent considerable time money and study in the search for Truth. I had discarded Spiritualism of the Eusapia Palladino and Fox Brothers brand as useless almost at the start, but personal experiences in Scientology and Dianetics have led me round to a much more solid grounding of belief in re-incarnation and dimensions beyond the ken of our bodies.

An endeavor to formulate a unified field theory has found radiesthesia, cosmic rays, astrology, magnetism, electronics, witchcraft (the old religion - not "Black Magic") and a host of other "wild" sciences, crafts, or mysteries, all falling explicably into various places on a universal spectrum of energy, frequency and wavelength. More and more I am convinced of the immortality and power of the human spirit as a bringer-into-reality of its own concepts and those of the Great Creator.

The expansion of own sphere of awareness and the assistance of others to expand theirs seems to me to be the main purpose of Life.

AN ADAMSKI BELIEVER IN IRELAND

If anyone want to know where that man came from who stepped out of a saucer and contacted Adamski in 1952, I would say that he probably was an Eskimo from Alaska, carefully made up and rehearsed. Children from such a remote area, now being modernized (for what purpose) and also Hawaii and Siberia could be selected when babies and TAUGHT that they HAD BEEN BORN ON VENUS OR MARS and landed on earth by space craft for the mission of helping earth men into a new age of wondrous knowledge and great wisdom.

By this method they would be even safer when making contact with ordinary members of the population. The rest comes easily. When People already filled with the imagery of "sugar-plum-fairyland-rainbows" and Bible prophecy see these men and read of them in countless books and articles, and feeding on what they think is proof of what they have been believing and wanting to see happen for a long time.

Does it not make common sense to imagine,that, those planning World War III or running the grave risk of tripping it off, must also be studying how to halt it? Melting the Greenland Ice Cap and Saucer descent would be two ways in which it could be halted if all went according to plan. I urge you to look into this quickly!

Mr. Stead was thoughtful enough to enclose an Irish Postal Money Order for Three Shillings and Six Pence (I guess) for one sample copy of Round Robin, which is on its way. Trouble is, the local banks dont quote an exchange rate on Irish Pounds. They would be glad to send the MO through for collection, at the standard fee of $1.50. There are twenty shillings to the British pound. At the present rate of exchange, $2.75, there wouldn't be much profit in trying to collect on the MO. Guess we'll frame it and hand it on the wall here at Headquarters. (Ed.)

LIGHT FROM BUFFALO,NY

Dear Meade: Many thanks for the May-June '59 issue of RR. As entrancing as ever. If there are any office errors in it I haven't come across any as yet. And, if there were any errors, it would not matter one iota. Notes from the Vau Communicators were especially interesting. Noted, with regret, that the above issue is the last under your editorship; but also noted with pleasure that Editor Crabb will carry on from where you leave off, for a well earned rest. With kind regards, to you and Mr. Crabb.

PRAWDA CZY FANTAZJA SPODKOW LATAJACYCH

If you suspect that the words "Flying Saucer" are in the above you are probably correct. It is the title of a full page article on UFOs which appeared in a Warsaw, Poland paper. It was sent to us by Kazimierz Zaleski, along with six other large clippings or articles by him appearing in Warsaw papers. Fortunately, Mr. Zaleski writes excellent English as well. Here are excerpts from his letter. (Ed.)

Dear Mr. Layne: Both the beautiful books you were kind enough to send me have arrived safely. I am infinitely grateful to you for that friendly act. All information on UFO is of big value here because it is so difficult to obtain. At present we are translating extracts of those works and abbreviations to fit in articles in our periodical press and lectures, which I deliver occasionally. I am glad to say there are now no restrictions in publishing news concerning UFO, so I try to inform the public as often and thoroughly as I can. . . . Trevor James' book contains unfortunately much sad information. There have been similar cases in Poland of the best pilots perishing under mysterious conditions. . . The sightings of UFO are much more frequent in Poland now than they were. . . Observations of UFO evolutions and manouvers are similar to those previously seen in the West. . . Events seem to be running at such a pace that maybe an official landing of our friends from Space is near and I feel the public should be informed. . . We also intend setting up an official organization of UFO investigation. . . In the meantime I wish you success in your investigations in the problem which interests us both.

POETRY FROM HOLLYWOOD

Freshly washed garden leaves, welcome the returning mocking birds,
Their throats thrilling with song of my last year's memory.
Gracious geraniums rewarding my anxious need and daily care,
A garden prayer in eucalyptus perfume with this hillside
enduring peace.
The wind-thoughts from lovers of nature, birds singing back their answers
Poetry of thoughts and colors reaching back to moments with music;
Loneliness passes as you climb the steps, warm breezes make you dream,
To the life of many growings: green shading into white.
Tiny sounds of hopping birds: garden sounds, the plantings of delight,
Soul of the garden, oh glorious day,
What a wonderful find, I've come to stay.

Dear Friend ML: Herewith an article for your Round Robin which I feel may be of deep interest to the Borderlanders. I have done quite a bit of work along this line, and hope to do more. Trevor James' book contains unfortunately much sad information. There have been similar cases in Poland of the best pilots perishing under mysterious conditions. . . The sightings of UFO are much more frequent in Poland now than they were. . . Observations of UFO evolutions and manouvers are similar to those previously seen in the West. . . Events seem to be running at such a pace that maybe an official landing of our friends from Space is near and I feel the public should be informed. . . We also intend setting up an official organization of UFO investigation. . . In the meantime I wish you success in your investigations in the problem which interests us both.

POETRY FROM HOLLYWOOD

Freshly washed garden leaves, welcome the returning mocking birds,
Their throats thrilling with song of my last year's memory.
Gracious geraniums rewarding my anxious need and daily care,
A garden prayer in eucalyptus perfume with this hillside
enduring peace.
The wind-thoughts from lovers of nature, birds singing back their
answers
Poetry of thoughts and colors reaching back to moments with music;
Loneliness passes as you climb the steps, warm breezes make you dream,
To the life of many growings: green shading into white.
Tiny sounds of hopping birds: garden sounds, the plantings of delight,
Soul of the garden, oh glorious day,
What a wonderful find, I've come to stay.

AND A LETTER (and article) FROM NORTH HOLLYWOOD

Dear Friend ML: Herewith an article for your Round Robin which I feel may be of deep interest to the Borderlanders. I have done quite a bit of work along this line, and hope to do more. It is a good relaxation and change from UFO photography and very beneficial to the plants. I am so glad that our mutual friend, Riley Crabb, is lending you editorial help. . . He has done a great deal of very valuable work in his own right and cannot be gulled by spurious psychism. (Thanks. Ed.). . . You will have heard, of course, of the demise of Bro. Franklin Thomas, (co-owner with Dorothy Thomas of the New Age Publishing Co., 1542 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles 26) a pioneer of the New Age who, like yourself, fought against heavy odds to get the right literature disseminated. I felt for some time that he was on borrowed time, remaining in his physical body more by the occult powers he so considerably wielded than by any adequacy of that body for further use by its mind. . . I was only one of dozens who have their sanity today because of his vast knowledge and the ability to apply it. Yet, few seem to realize how remarkable a man he was. . . the most perfectly organized man on the mental level I have ever met.
